PHONE COMPANY TO SPEND $115,400 HERE IN YEAR

Public Utility Sees Greater Growth for City and Is Making Improvements

With a program of improvements calling for an expenditure of $115,400 this year and work already started which will cost $61,700, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company is preparing for the future of Glendale as probably no other public utility in proportion to its revenue, according to Fred Deal, manager here.

The work well under way will relieve the congestion of phone traffic north of Broadway and includes an underground conduit at a cost of $6,670; an underground cable at $9.520; and an aerial cable at $45,510. None of these figures includes the cost of local connections, etc.

Other cable estimates which have been approved for other parts of the city include an underground cable at $9,600 and an aerial cable at $14,100, making an additional $23,700. Then for central office equipment, such as a new switchboard, etc., $30,000 has been allowed, according to Mr. Deal.

Sees Future Growth

The unusual growth of the Glendale exchange is necessitating the constant attention of company officials, it is stated, and new surveys are being made in order to serve the greatest number of people possible. The co-operation of the public in assisting in the problems faced by the phone company, is appreciated by Mr. Deal.

Expansion has been so rapid that no human organization could keep up to Glendale, but the P. T. and T. is certainly looking ahead a few years in giving Glendale such a large appropriation for improvements in the face of strained financial conditions in the east.

DISTRICT SCOUT COUNCIL ORGANIZED; H. F. BENNER SELECTED AS EXECUTIVE

H. F. BENNER

Who was last night chosen scout executive by the just organized District Scout Council, which includes Glendale, Burbank and Eagle Rock.

Charles L. Chandler Chosen Head of Organization at Meeting Held Last Night

The completion of the organization of a Boy Scout District Council including Glendale, Burbank and Eagle Rock, last night at the offices of Roy L. Kent, marked the turning point for a better and more efficient development of scouting in the tri-cities, it is believed. For more than a year local men interested in scouting affairs have been endeavoring to organize a first-class council with a full time executive.

The meeting last night was declared a splendid example of team work and co-operation among the representatives from all three cities. The meeting was well attended. R. H. Condie, representing the Regional Boy Scout office, explained the plan for the district council following which a new set of by-laws were adopted. Four new vice-presidents were elected, two from Burbank and two from Eagle Rock.

Officers Are Chosen

The officers of the council for the ensuing year are as follows:

President, Charles L. Chandler; first vice-president and chairman committee on finance, Charles B. Guthrie; second vice-president and chairman court of honor, W. C. Wattles; third vice-president and chairman committee on camping, Charles H. Klein; fourth vice-president and chairman committee on leadership and training, E. E. Harwood; fifth vice-president and chairman committee on civic service, C. L. Suits; sixth vice-president and chairman committee on publicity, L. F. Collins; secretary, Roy L. Kent; treasurer, A. R. Eastman; scout commissioner, Nathan Rigdon, and scout executive, H. F. Benner.

The district council consists of representatives from all three cities on business, labor, civic, educational and religious interests. The following men together with the officers and others that will be added from time to time will compose the membership of the district council for 1922:

C. C. Cooper, H. P. Coffman, H. M. Butts, F. S. Moore, R. W. Colburn, A. T. Cowan, Francis Wilkinson, Charles F. Toll, J. M. Rhoades, A. A. Barton, Dr. J. E Eckles, J. H. Barnum and R. L. McCourt.

Scout Executive Chosen

Following the meeting of the council the executive board met and selected H. F. Benner a former Glendale boy, for the position of scout executive.

Mr. Benner's experience in scouting embraces a period of eleven years and ranges from the first stage of tenderfoot scout on up through the ranks to his present office. He was instrumental in organizing the first troop of Boy Scouts in Southern California, in Glendale (Troop No. 1, Tropico). During the past year he has built up an effective Boy Scout organization in Tucson, Ariz., having helped increase the membership during his stay there to over 200 per cent. Prior to going to Tucson Mr. Benner graduated from several training courses in Boy Scout leadership and later filled the position as assistant scout executive for the Los Angeles Scout Council. He is well known to many local citizens who knew him when he first joined the organization. Mr. Benner will make his home in Glendale at 343 West Garfield avenue and will assume his duties as scout executive immediately.

MUSICAL SCHOOL PROGRAM

The regular meeting of the Cerritos Avenue Parent-Teacher association was held at the school building yesterday afternoon, Mrs. E. L. Adams presiding, at which time Dr. Maude Wilde, president of the Mothers' Association Center of Los Angeles, gave a talk on "The Story of Life." This was followed by a musical program by the pupils of the fourth and fifth grades, and a reading "It Can Be Done" by Isabel Gates.

BETTER SERVICE ON EAGLE ROCK LINE FOR COMMUTERS

System Being Used in Place of Pacific Electric at Fare Saving, Claimed

In order to keep in pace with the growing traffic, which has, the company states, shown a steady increase on the Glendale-Eagle Rock line since the raising of the Pacific Electric rates, Auditor W. M. Mills of the local company, has announced that plans are under way for the immediate betterment of service.

Instead of running the cars throughout the day on the half hour schedule, as has been in effect during the past few years, the present plan is to furnish twenty-minute service during the rush hours of the day, thereby permitting Glendale daily commuters to lose little or no time in making the trip to and from Los Angeles.

In an effort to try out the practicability of the proposed schedule the company is experimenting with the "three an hour" system for a few days between the hours of 3 and 6 p. m. The main object of the experiment, it is said, is to determine the correct location for a "passing track," as the present line is a single track affair.

Tells of Test Trip

Regarding the raising of the Pacific Electric rates and traveling on the Glendale-Eagle Rock line, R. W. Mottern sends the following communication to The Evening News in which he tells of a money saving test trip made on the latter line:

Editor The Evening News—All citizensof Glendale wohse business calls them to Los Angeles daily have it within their own hands to beat the piracy of the Pacific Electric in raising of the fare between Glendale and the city. Beginning January 1, the P. E. began a new system of public robbery, by increasing its rates because the Railroad Commission said it could do so.

A suburban city such as Glendale is more than entitled to due consideration in low trolley fares especially because Glendale contributes so ma-

Mrs. M. Baker Is Selected As Head of Women's Guild

A most enthusiastic meeting of the Women's Guild of St. Marks' church was held in the guild hall yesterday afternoon for the regular meeting and annual election of officers.

Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, president, called the meeting to order at 2:45 o'clock and after preliminary business was transacted Mrs. Young presented the report of the nominating committee and unanimous ballot was cast for the following officers:

Mrs. Mortimer Baker, president; Mrs. J. L. McOmber; first vice-president; Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, second vice-president; Mrs. Gertrude Bassett, secretary; Mrs. Bine Smith, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Helen Campbell, treasurer; Mrs. Frank England, Mrs. Farber and Miss Ellen Williams, members of the board.

After the business meeting tea was served and a social time enjoyed by the forty members present.

Charge of Murder Is Filed Against Allen

Deputy District Attorney McClelland late yesterday issued a complaint charging D. J. (John) Allen with the murder of Henry J. (Jack) Ronsee, La Crescenta Water company manager. This followed the inquest held at the Jewel City Undertaking parlors in which two stories were told of the shooting. Miss Smith and W. Burke Maxwell, an attorney, gave opposing evidence while Herbert Iasigi, a disinterested party, sided with Miss Smith.

While precautions were taken by the police here by assigning two motorcycle officers as escorts to the two official cars carrying the defendant, attorneys, coroner, deputy sheriffs and drivers back to Los Angeles, the "yellow" stories of a "Glendale lynching threat" are hotly denied by members of the Elks' lodge and others who have interested themselves in bringing their "brother's" slayer to justice.

COLORADO P.-T. A. MEETS

The regular meeting of the Colorado Street Parent-Teacher association was held at the school yesterday afternoon, Mrs. E. S. McKee presiding, at which time details in connection with the two-room unit, which is to be built at the school, were discussed. A paper on "Child Welfare" was read by Miss Barlow, a nurse, and proved most interesting and instructive. A social hour and refreshments preceded the business meeting.

DID IT RAIN? WELL, HERE ARE FIGURES TO STUDY OVER

Mister Jupiter Pluvius Hit It Up Plenty, According to H. E. Bartlett s Gauge

Have you gotten thawed out from the recent rain storm yet?

Records from the rain gauge of H. E. Bartlett at 417 Myrtle street show that more rain fell on December 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, and 2', when 9.30 inches arrived, than in any single recent spell since 1916 any single recent spell since 1916 when in four days, January 15, 16, 17 and 18, 9.90 inches of moisture decended from the clouds.

Jupiter Pluvius was kind enough to Glendale merchants to stop crying the day before Christmas but he started weeping again over the miseries of the past year Christmas night. More rain fell on December 25, 26, 27 and 30, bringing the total rainfall for the month to 12.35 inches. This is almost twelve times as much rain as fell last December and five times as much as fell during December, 1919. In fact, it was the largest amount since December, 1909 when the record was 5.27 inches.

Do You Like Figures

December records since that time are as follows: 1910, no rain; 1911, 1.03; 1912, .39; 1913, 1.64; 1914, 4.62; 1915, 4.83; 1916, 4.54; 1917, no rain; 1918, 2.04; 1919, 2.94; 1920, 1.04; 1921, 12.35.

January 1 and 2, 2.20 inches of rain fell, which together with the moisture of October 1, 4, 5, and 23, and November 28, brought the season total to 15.51 inches. Last season it was not until May 2 that so much rain had fallen.

During the last twelve complete seasons, there has been an average of about 18 inches of rain. The record is as follows: 1909-10, 15.18; 1910-11, 20.18; 1911-12, 12.86; 1912-13, 14.53; 1913-14, 29.49; 1914-15, 20.80; 1915-16, 25.25; 1916-17, 18; 1917-18, 17.74; 1918-19, 11.72; 1919-20, 16.04; 1920-21, 17.71.

Things Are Rather Wet

If you are writing east, you don't need to say anything about the matter but last season there were thirty-eight rainy days—one in September, two in October, four in November, three in December, ten in January, five in March, one in April and eight in May.

The season before there were thirty-five rainy days—four in September, one in October, two in November, four in December, two in January, eleven in February, nine in March, and one each in April and May.

However, most of these rains were scarcely perceptible and Old Sol has been on the job most of the time—if not more.

Elk Pin Smashers Will Hold Meeting to Start Tournament

Following the successful close of the recently-completed Glendale Elks' House Bowling league, an announcement has been made regarding the forming of a similar bowling organization, the opening games of which are to be played in the near future. In order to make definite arrangements for the affair James Apffel, chairman of the bowling committee and president of the initial league, has called a meeting of all club members interested in the pin-smashing pastime for next Wednesday night in the lobby of the club bowling alleys.

The present plan is to eliminate any forms of handicap, such as were allowed in the play of the first league, and arrange the team members according to their records made in the former competition. There are to be three men on each team, with one substitute appointed before the tournament begins, making it necessary to form two separate leagues, one of so-called Class A players and the other composed of Class B players. Then, at the close of the season's play, in which every team shall play at least one match with every other squad in the league, the winning bowlers of each division will play a championship match to decide on the winning team.

INDUSTRIAL ZONES ARE ELIMINATED IN NORTHWEST

San Fernando Road, Central Avenue and Other Section Removed From Ordinance

Protesting against the establishment of an industrial zone, as proposed by the pending zone ordinance, in certain territory from the San Fernando Road to Central avenue, people residing in the northwestern section of the city crowded the city council chambers last night until the sign "standing room only" was ready for display. The result was:

On motion of Councilman Dwight W. Stephenson, seconded by Councilman A. H. Lapham, the council unanimously voted to eliminate the San Fernando Road-Central avenue strip from the proposed industrial district and—

On the same motion by Councilman Stephenson, voted to eliminate from the proposed industrial district, that territory from Doran stret to the Burbank city line, east of the San Fernando Road.

Incidentally, it was brought out by a protest made against lumber yards on Glendale avenue by Attorney H. C. Levey, that Mayor Spencer Robinson and members of the city council are endeavoring to have the yards removed by the electrification of the Salt Lake Railway company's Glendale avenue line—or the removal of the system itself from Glendale avenue. In other words, Attorney Levey is insisting that the yards be removed and that the Salt Lake modernize its system by electrification. He is, through the improvement club which he heads, acting with the city officials in endeavoring to bring about the change.

Those Who Spoke

Among those who spoke on the zoning ordinance were Charles B. Guthrie, Mrs. M. L. Tight, Mattison B. Jones, W. E. Evans, John R. Grey, O. M. Newby and members of the council. Mr. Cooper, Meet Mr. McCourt! Yes, He's Your Neighbor

Further proof that Glendale has grown real metropolity!

Time was when everybody knew everybody else, etc.

Not so recently, however. Evidence the meeting last night for the first time of C. C. McCourt, prominent in civic affairs and widely known as manufacturer of Calnevar shirts.

Mr. Cooper resides at 302 North Central avenue; Mr. McCourt lives in the same block of the same street at 334 North Central avenue. Both are members of the Boy Scout Council and attended the meeting at R. L. Kent's office last night.

"Who is that gentleman making the motion," queried Mr. Cooper of a fellow member.

"Why, that's Mr. McCourt, your neighbor. Like to meet him?"

And then the fun began. The shirt maker was invited to shake hands with a neighbor.

"Who is the fine looking fellow?" he asked aside.

"Why, that's Mr. Cooper," was the reply. And the introduction took place.

COUNTY OFFICIALS ARE SPEAKERS AT CLUB SESSION

Sheriff Tells of Conditions of Jail; Supervisor Bean Also Gives Talk

A very interesting meeting of the Thursday Afternoon club, of which Mrs. E. V. Bacon is president, was held yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Branch Library building, Los Feliz and Brand boulevard, with Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of the Forum programs in charge, at which time talks were given by Sheriff William Traeger of Los Angeles on "Plans for the New County and City Jail and Improved Conditions for Prisoners," Supervisor J. H. Bean of Los Angeles on "Modern Methods for County Institutes Gleaned from Several Eastern Cities," and Mrs. Mab Copeland Lineman of Los Angeles on "Property Rights of Women Under Existing Laws."

Tells of Conditions

Sheriff Traeger gave an account of existing conditions at the county jail and its inadequate accommodations. He told of the abolishing of the "boarders" room, the same being turned into a women's dormitory. Mr. Traeger also told of the new ideas to be incorporated in the new city and county jail, which is to be built across from the court house. The establishment of an honor camp was also described by him. He expressed his opinion that when the men were discharged from this camp, after having served their term, that they would be better citizens, as they would have some money in their pockets and would have good clothes.

Supervisor Bean also spoke about the county and city jail and told of conditions he found existing in the east. He especially brought out the fact of there being so many young men being confined in the jails as criminals and urged the civic organizations and parent-teacher associations to take active steps in keeping the young people out of the jails. Mr. Bean also told about the county hospital, especially in regard to patients having contagious diseases. At the close of his talk the club members decided to visit the county jail at some time especially set aside for their visit.

From Woman's Viewpoint

The next speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Mab Copeland Lineman of Los Angeles, who was recently elected president of the Women Lawyers' club. She brought out many points about the privileges of women in regard to their property. Mrs. Lineman told of the necessity of women seeing to it that their husbands have a will for the reason that even though they may be under the impression that their interests are protected by having community property, in the event of there being no will this property can be divided among other relatives. Other points of interest brought out in her talk were regarding homesteading of property, joint ownership deeds with survival clause, etc. At the close of the open forum meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served to the more than seventy-five members present.

TWO CELEBRATED CANNONS

On May 19, 1788, congress ordered two cannons to be named, one "John Hancock" and the other Samual Adams," being the remainder of the four cannons which constituted the whole train of artillery possessed by the colonists at the beginning of the Revolution. The other two had been captured by the British.

terially to the prosperity and growth of Los Angeles. It is hence up to the business interests of Los Angeles to join with Glendale in her fight against the piracy of the P. E.

But, while legal means are taken to curb the octopus grip of the P. E. upon the traveling public, a test way has been discovered that not only promises well but actually saves money to the traveling public.

Try This Trip, Folks

On last Friday a test trip was made by one of our citizens to L. A. via the Eagle Rock trolley, and it was found very satisfactory, in running time, direct connections and cost. The 7:45 Glendale and Eagle Rock trolley makes direct connections with the yellow car line, at Eagle Rock, landing you on Broadway by 8:30 at a minimum cost of 8 1-3 cents.

Leaving L. A. on Broadway and Sixth at 5:40 p. m. puts you back at Eagle Rock at 6:25, making direct connections with the Glendale car. And the actual running time is very little different from the P. E.

The round trip from Glendale to L. A. and return is a maximum cost of 16 2-3 cents instead of 30 cents over the P. E. This low rate via the Eagle Rock can be obtained by means of a trolley book over the Glendale & Eagle Rock line at thirty rides for $1 and also over the yellow car line to the city with a thirty-ride book at $1.50. This is even more reasonable than on the P. E. at 23 cents the round trip before the P. E. began her recent piratical action against the public.

Citizens of Glendale, don't act like a knot on a log. The above is your remedy—do some calculating if you wish to save money on the trolley in getting down to the city. Show the P. E. system it cannot ride roughshod over you without most serious protest, using a means that bring you self-protection, right at your door.

Know that the L. A. city line has anticipated a rush of Glendalians over her line so has provided ample fine cars and good service. Try it, be convinced and save money.

FINANCE CAMPAIGN FOR METHODISTS IS UNDER WAY

Much Enthusiasm Being Shown In Work Outlined In Behalf of Church

Optimism pervaded last night's banquet at the First Methodist church, which was attended by over 500 members of the congregation, all of whom seem determined to cooperate today and tomorrow to the fullest extent in a vigorous financial campaign.

Dr. James Allen Geissenger, pastor of the First Methodist church of Anaheim, known as the White Temple, and who stated that he had assisted in putting over fifty financial campaigns for churches in California last year, was the speaker of the evening.

A printed financial statement upon a card lay beside each plate. This called attention to the fact that $26,425 is needed to pay off the church debt of $14,500; the debt of $4000 on the parsonage, for a balcony, $2,500; for decorating front of church, $850; for lowering choir loft and pulpit, $500 and for completing the organ, $1,575 and for interest, $2,500. However, $8,000 worth of subscriptions have been pledged already, leaving a balance of $26,425 to be raised during this campaign.

The church plant is now valued at $90,000 although it cost $48,500 including $3,500 for the lot and $45,000 for the building.

The membership when completed was 450; January 1, 1922 it was 1,025.

The parsonage at 315 North Jackson street cost $6,500 and is now valued at $7,250.

These Are Teams

Two teams of ten men each have been chosen to conduct the work of the campaign.

"Tho Go-Get-'Em Quick" is captained by C. D. Lusby. Its members are: C. W. Ingledue, W. B. Collins, Rev. E. Hoskyn, H. A. Wilson, J. G. Lampert, Charles Starkey, S. S. Trowbridge, R. F. Kitterman, Charles Erling, and Dr. C. R. Lusby.

The "Eat 'M Up" team is led by A. W. Tower. Its soldiers are: T. A. Wright, H. Malone, Dr. H. V. Brown, Thomas Addison, William Goss, L. L. Woods, B. F. Geiger, G. E. Murphy, Pierson Hanning and L. W. Babcock.

Dr. Geissinger's address was dotted with ancedotes of his experiences in church financial work and replete with vivid word-pictures which kept his audience in continual good humor.

"I feel that it is like 'carrying coals to Newcastle' to come over here for two or three days and help you folks raise a measly $20,000," declared Rev. Geissinger commenting upon the manifest ability of the congregation to raise four or five times that sum without half trying.

Think In Dollars

Calling attention to the fact that the per capita expenditure in the Methodist church for foreign work, the saving of the world, had only been a cent and a half a week until recently, when it was raised to a little over six cents, Dr. Geissinger said:

"The church today is not paying the way it ought to, not investing the way it ought to. We are thinking in nickels and dimes; we ought to think in terms of dollars. We aren't going to save the world on any such basis as that. We are only going to save the world by giving liberally."

The three things most necessary in Methodism today, according to Dr. Geissinger are "to pray more; to stay more and to pay more."

This Machine Bores Holes for Use of the Phone Company Poles

The Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company is using a pole hole borer in renewing its system in this city. The machine is mounted on an auto truck and motor driven. Both the boring machine and pole are placed on derricks which permit the workmen to do an otherwise difficult task with the greatest ease.

New socks and stockings will wear much better if washed in warm water and a little soap before being taken into use.

Thirty Inches of Rain

Rainfall at Grassy flats in the Haines canyon watershed, back of Tujunga, totals more than 30 inches to date. In Tujunga proper the gauge gives 18 inches, an unusual fall for so early in the season. This assures the foothills of a plentiful water supply the coming summer.

Creamery Products Shop

Louis Schwartz, formerly employed as an analytical chemist by the United States government at Boston, Mass., arrived in Tujunga last week as a holiday visitor at the home of his sister, Mrs. Nettie Williams, formerly of Glendale. Mr. Schwartz is going to open a dairy and creamery products shop in the Tujunga Lumber & Supply Company's business block as soon as the building is ready for occupancy.

Open Eagle Rock Offices

H. H. Bevis, well known in local realty circles, is a member of the new firm of Bevis & Hazlett which is opening offices in Eagle Rock at the corner of Castle and Myrtle avenues. Mr. Bevis purchased the lot from Dr. J. C. Shedd. A general real estate and insurance business will be conducted.

Tujunga Shows Progress

In the green Verdugo hills the boosters are beginning the New Year with a formidable program for progress. The Tujunga Chamber of Commerce starts the new year with a large membership, cash in the treasury and they are going after electric rail transportation, improved telephone service, the extension of natural gas mains from San Fernando and better highways. The Greater Tujunga club is seeking to incorporate a city of the sixth class, but it's sure to be a first class community, at any rate.

First Men to Receive State Educational Aid

A dispatch to The Evening News by its International News Service leased wire states that active administration of the Veterans' Educational Act, passed by the last legislature, has begun. Sixty-seven former service men have been enrolled at Stanford university.

While these are the first men to receive state educational aid, it was announced by the veteran welfare board that applications of many more have been approved and several consignments of veterans will be enrolled in other schools and colleges during the next few weeks.

Many of the veterans enrolled in Stanford are taking up courses in law and medicine, but the majority are taking engineering.

Under the Veterans' Educational Act the maximum sum which can be spent on the education of a former service man is $1,000.

Two-Dollar Bill Hard Luck for This Man

SISTERVILLE, W. Va.—It might not be safe for any person who discredits the $2-bill "hoodoo" to voice such an assertion within hearing of L. W. Johnson, Charleston, W. Va.

Johnson does not admit he is superstitious or superstitiously inclined, but—

A few days ago he gave in exchange for a $2 bill $2 worth of merchandise and three bright new $1 bills, thinking he had been tendered a five.

That's not all. Climbing into his auto, he started for home, two miles away. His homeward journey was marked by a broken spring, two punctures, eleven other stops for tire trouble, collision with a county road truck, bumping along the edge of a steep embankment at Lover's Leap, near Hawk's Nest; headlights broken, crank case jammed and batteries so weak their light resembled a lightning bug.

The headlights, however, were strong enough to reveal two black cats crossing the road ahead of his machine.

Finally arriving at home, after being bawled out by a cop, Johnson found a $2 "dun" for a bill he thought he had paid.

"Two-dollar bills and good luck? Br-r-r-r-r!"

Recreation Center Is Close to Volcano

HONOLULU, T. H.—A recreation camp within a stone's throw of the crater of an active volcano, where sulphur-laden smoke from the volcano renders fumigation unnecessary and where one may be lulled to slumber by the mutterings of the pent-up forces underground!

It may not sound like a good place for a recreation camp, but it has been selected as such by Major-General Charles P. Summerall, U. S. A., commanding the Hawaiian Department, for the men of his command and will be opened in the near future.

The camp is located at Kilauea Volcano, on the Island of Hawaii, an overnight journey from Honolulu, where the majority of the troops are stationed. Despite the proximity of the volcano the site is considered safe and desirable, for the volcano is like the proverbial barking dog, noisy and sometimes spectacular, but not dangerous. It is visited by thousands of tourists yearly and by an almost equal number of local people. It being at 4,000 feet elevation above sea level, army authorities believe that a visit to the camp will provide the soldiers with a stimulating change of climate.

The study of newspapers is in the curriculum of West Point Military Academy. The cadets are required to read two dailies as part of their class work, and pass examinations on deductions from important editorials and stories. The papers are read after breakfast and the cadets are quizzed orally on the day's news. Then they summarize the important happenings, domestic and foreign, and explain their significance.

Canadian Farmer's Dollar Is Improving

REGINA, Sask.—Price deflation is following an orderly course. The purchasing power of the Canadian farmer's dollar is steadily increasing. This increase has so stimulated trade that the volume of goods sold now equals that of preceding years. Surveys indicate that the cycle of prosperity has begun to revolve.

The latest stimulant to the farmer's dollar is the announcement of price reductions by two leading Canadian implement firms. The reductions average 20 per cent and apply to all finished implements stored at the various branches and to the new machinery being turned out. The plants have cut their production costs that amount.

Importance of this reduction must be seen when it is considered that there are more than 40,000 tractors on Western Canadian farms; that 31,000 of these have been purchased by the three prairie provinces in four years, and that development of the new agricultural districts necessitates the purchase of at least 10,000 tractors a year. Last year the total value of tractors in operation in the west was $21,000,000. Special tractor plows represented a value of $7,300,000. Clipping 20 per cent from the cost of new machinery, agricultural experts declare, means enlarged acreage next year.

Reduction in prices of automobiles has stimulated that trade, although farmers have not been as big purchasers this year as last. There are now in Saskatchewan 61,000 automobiles, an increase of 500 per cent for seven years. Sale of automobiles has been enhanced by the comprehensive good roads program being carried out in connection with the Dominion Government's $20,000,000 appropriation for main highways and market roads.

Chinese Bandits Steal Coffin During Funeral

SHANGHAI, China—Highway robbery has reached a fine point in Shanghai, and Jesse James and his brave crew could take a few lessons from Chinese artists.

While the sun was still hours away from the horizon a funeral procession was passing slowly along Thibet Road. The two wooden gods guaranteed to drive off the evil spirits rattled along on wheels at the beginning of the parade. Twenty little boys, gaily decked in embroidered satin and silk robes of richest colors and beaded headdresses, playing Chinese musical instruments came along next. Then appeared men carrying tables, with symbolic food in dishes, which were tied on so that they wouldn't slip off.

These were followed by men carrying gorgeous satin umbrellas of imperial yellow, red and green. A "rickshaw," made of paper and bamboo, marched next. This was to be burned in order that the spirit of the deceased might ride in it in the next world.

Just when the mourners for the boy, who, by the way, wear white sackcloth and walk after the coffin, were wailing, the Buddhist priests beating their gongs and the 1921 band of Chinese, wearing gorgeous purple-and-gold-trimmed uniforms, playing "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town," a band of beggars and bandits suddenly beset the procession.

The coolie bearers of the coffin and the mourners were scattered, and before help could arrive the bandits had seized the coffin and dashed away. The Chinese police are trying to locate the coffin, for in China a coffin is one of the treasured possessions of a household.

Mining in Japan at Low Ebb, Says Report

TOKIO—That mining activities in the Japanese Empire are at a low ebb is shown by a report recently given out by the Mining Bureau of the Department of Agriculture and Commerce. Serious decreases in the output of such important products as iron, silver, copper and sulphur make it apparent that the depression is widespread, although possibly in the case of coal an exception might be made. Even the coal has fallen from 2,017,983 metric tons in July last year—to 1,804,913 tons this year, while for the first seven months of the respective years there was a decline of over 1,600,000 metric tons.

Canada Berry Men for Co-Operative Market

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Farmers of the British Columbia Berry Growers' association have completed arrangements with a large cannery by which all the berries used for jam and canning stock will be put up on a co-operative basis and marketed in the same way.

The association provides the fruit and $100,000 credit, while the canning company gives the use of its plant at $150,000 credit. To raise the necessary money the farmer gives a demand note based on his estimated jam crop at $120 a ton. At the end of the season the note is revised according to the actual crop. Banks will loan full face value on these notes.

The selling will be in the hands of both producers and packers. The fruit will be charged into the finished product at the price at the time of delivery, and the profits will be split fifty-fifty at the season's close.

The association will market as much fresh fruit as possible on the coast and in the prairie provinces. Only the surplus will find its way to the canning plant. The fruit will be picked in pails and processed at the factory. It will be packed in barrels in sugar and canned as convenient.

This co-operative plan is expected to add materially to the profits of the berry farmers and will apply to strawberries, raspberries, loganberries, blackberries and several other varieties of small fruits.

Oldest Marine Seeks Furlough; Over 100

WASHINGTON—The oldest marine in the world has just been found. He is M. M. Bradley, now at Leavenworth Hospital, Kansas, and says he is one hundred years and three months old.

Bradley revealed himself when he wrote to Secretary of the Navy Denby for a furlough, to permit him to visit his son, James Bradley, a retired policeman, who lives in Brooklyn. The letter of application for furlough inclosed a letter from the son in which the father was advised "to settle down."

Marine Corps records show that Bradley enlisted in the Corps in 1855 and was discharged in 1857, re-enlisting again and serving until 1863, retiring as a sergeant.

Benefits of Postoffice
Trust to the Cameraman
Money Grows on Bushes
Endless Investigations

By Gil A. Cowan

REAL benefits already are accruing from the establishment of an independent postoffice in this city. Probably a score of families are moving to this city in order that the bread winner will be nearer his or her work in the government service.

That, however, is but one angle of a more sunny situation. Map makers, railroad employes, government officials and a whole lot more people are going to have their attention drawn to this "first-class city." Great stuff, eh?

The wonders of motion pictures are apparent in the presentation this week at the Glendale Theatre of scenes from the Pasadena Tournament of Roses.

Trust to the cameraman to pick a winner for, in the International News reel now on display, he features the Glendale float which looks like a "million dollars" in comparison with the others, all of which makes local people feel glad.

And the Pathe pictures which are following this week-end boldly announce "First Prize" and then show Glendale's float, according to patrons of Los Angeles' playhouses.

It would seem as though Portland could be piqued by this.

That Glendale float, for instance. Upwards of $1700 was garnered in no time at all. More forthcoming if need be.

The Rotary club organized here last week with close to $1000 paid in by members. But that was nothing at all, considering—

A first-class council of the Boy Scouts of America is stepping out after $4500. Eagle Rock and Burbank will assist.

The First Methodist congregation, 1000 in attendance, last night decided to raise $20,000 immediately, pay off balances due on their church and parsonage and provide a lot of needed improvements.

And the Presbyterians are trotting around with $200,000 for their new edifice to be erected this year at Louise and Harvard streets.

After all this will come a civic center, auditorium, possibly a city park; a complete new high school plant for the $85,000 site recently voted; and the chances are that what is mentioned won't be half of the accomplishments ahead in 1922.

"I never shot a man in my life except the enemy during some fighting," Major H. L. Opie of Staunton, Va., accused of killing American soldiers in France without trial, told the senatorial investigating committee in his own behalf.

Such a sweeping denial of charges in face of testimony already introduced makes it seem that there's a "nigger in the woodpile."

"Dead men tell no tales" is an old, old saying, but there are those alive who are making it rather warm for certain officers and enlisted men serving overseas.

The war department has no record of any killings alleged in testimony brought to light by Senator Tom Watson of Georgia. And well might that branch of the service overlook the loss of a few men. For what was a man's life worth?

In the ordnance department, the quartermaster corps, the air service and chemical section there were things done at the cost of men's lives, undoubtedly. It couldn't be stopped until too late. Likewise, there were officers who accomplished their purposes, undoubtedly, at the expense of other men's lives.

One doubts if the senate can do much for these fallen heroes—or cowards, as the case may have been—and it would be much better to spend the time and money used in this investigation for the rehabilitation of the living wrecks rescued from the hell of war.

Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward Is Hostess to Chapter

An all-day meeting of Chapter CJ, P. E. O., was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, 307 North Kenwood street, with Mrs. J. B. Moule as assisting hostess. The chapter combined a Christmas party with the regular business meeting and each member arrived carrying a mysterious package, which was deposited on the beautifully decorated Christmas tree which stood in one corner of the living room. Besides the chapter members there were three guests present: Mrs. A. M. Williams, Mrs. A. W. Tower and Mrs. R. F. Kitterman.

In the forenoon a business session was held. A delicious luncheon was served at noon. This was followed by a program including the following numbers: "Thanksgiving," by Mrs. W. A. Hamilton: "Women in Reform and Religious Movements," by Mrs. Roy Kent; a three-minute talk on "Truth" by Mrs. E. D. Yard. After the program, Mrs. Williams, acting as Santa Claus, distributed the pretty gifts which were displayed and admired amidst much fun and laughter, being a very fitting close to a happy day.

City and County Plan Is Again Brought Out

Consolidation of the city and county of Los Angeles is sought by the metropolis which would like to make a flock of "poor fish" pay for the upkeep of its expensive innovations.

The finance committee of the Los Angeles council in justifying its tremendous budget reports that the city pays in taxes the entire cost of maintaining its own government and in addition pays 70 per cent of the county's expenses.

As a result a committee of three will investigate the possibilities of consolidation. Of course, that would be absorption of the county by the city, for Glendale boosters maintain Los Angeles will never think of withdrawing from the county and letting Glendale be the new county seat.

'Tragedy of Armenia' Will Be Illustrated

This coming Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Tropico Presbyterian church there will be an illustrated service. "The Tragedy of Armenia" will be told by four thrilling feature films. It will be educational, informational, helpful and vividly descriptive of the Christian people of the ill-fated land of Asia Minor, where Christianity was born and nourished, the committee states.

Together with the above pictures there will be exhibited in one reel "The Children of Sorrows," showing what the men, women and children are doing to help themselves, with the assistance of the Near East Relief, without which thousands would have starved, and suffered death from cold and hunger.

In connection with this there will be illustrated song slides all of which will make an evening of mind and soul profit.

The service is free to all without any special collection or subscription. The local representative, Rev. R. Warren Mottern, of the Near East Relief is glad to bring this service for the benefit and good of all who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity next Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Boys Take Bread; Get Off With Reprimand

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—In stealing when you're hungry there's a moral, is the judgment of Chief of Police Cadin, of this city. With father, brothers and sisters—indeed, the whole family out of work, with an empty cupboard and no prospect of even a loaf of bread to relieve that gnawing sensation in the stomach, two young men—Philip and Ezekiel, 17 and 14, respectively, of the Logash family here—were caught while stealing bread. Their pitiable story of "want" at home appealed to the chief, who, after investigation, liberated the youths with a warning not to steal again.

Throughout the world about 4,000 earthquakes strong enough to be perceptible to the human senses occur annually on an average.

CORN IS WINTER FUEL

TOPEKA, Kan.—"Hiram, bring in another scuttle of corn" doesn't mean another bumper of corn whiskey, in this part of Kansas this winter.

There was a bumper corn crop this fall, and farmers have found themselves with an over supply and a poor market. Many have announced their intentions of burning their corn for fuel this winter. It's cheaper than coal, the farmers say.

ENAMEL USED AS CEMENT

Bath enamel has been used successfully in mending crockery or china. The pieces are joined carefully after the enamel is applied and any excess enamel that exudes is not rubbed or wiped off for fear of disturbing the joint. The mended article is then left two or three weeks to harden, when the excess enamel is rubbed off with sandpaper. The article is then ready for use and will hold hot as well as cold liquids and solids.

CABINET MEMBERS SEE PEACE PLAN HELPING WORLD

Becoming Stabilized Through Conferences, Is Belief of These Four Officials

WASHINGTON—Four members of the Harding cabinet look back upon the year 1921 with a realization that a very real step has been taken toward permanent world peace and a return to international good-will. Following are the Christmas messages of Vice-President Coolidge and Secretaries Hoover, Mellon and Daugherty, transmitted through the International News Service:

By CALVIN COOLIDGE
Vice-President of the United States

The great progress which the world has made during the present year lies in its removal of the causes which produce conflict and the renewal of its determination to adjust its differences not by force, but by reason. The material sword is being displaced by the spiritual sword. The military forces are being weakened while the moral forces are being strengthened. The peoples of the earth are more than ever convinced that if they are to receive justice they must do justice. In the realization of these hopes, in the practical application of these principles America has been called upon to take a leading part.

By HERBERT HOOVER
Secretary of Commerce

The year 1921 has been marked by real progress toward real peace. No year in the world's history has brought forth the same degree of international understanding in the direction of peace among nations.

The Arms Conference, if it accomplishes what this government hopes for, will be the greatest single force to bring peoples of the earth to a realization of the fact that peace is the best policy.

In an economic sense reduced armament will have a vital effect in restoring foreign currencies to an equilibrium and of stimulating freer intercourse among nations.

America is keenly concerned in better relationships in international trade. It is more directly concerned now in the problem of making it possible for men and women to follow lives of usefulness, of having their earnings count in a productive way, and to avoid the international disgrace of squandering the people's money in war and war plans.

Economic progress is assured if we can wipe out the terrible costs incident to war and divert that financial strength to the productive channels of peace.

After all, the answer to our international problem is this: Make people, by less burdensome tax costs, feel that there is an object in accumulating their savings for investment, and not for the purpose of having those savings confiscated for government uses in war making or war planning.

By A. W. MELLON
Secretary of the Treasury

The most forward step taken by any world power this year is the move of the United States to reduce the tax burdens of the people by cutting expenses for armament.

Nothing can go so far to restore good-will and comity among nations. When you reduce war costs you at once lighten the burden of taxes for the people.

The year has been featured by far-reaching steps here and abroad to reduce these burdens, which are great now and which may continue for years.

But joint action among nations, which has the effect of decreasing the tax liability of the average citizen, leaves to the average citizen a better prospect than he has had before, in a financial sense, and thus is inspired a more hopeful outlook, a more confident feeling among the people and among nations.

The big thing that stands out today is the fact that the United States has made it possible for the peoples of all countries to look forward with more confidence—confidence that the levies of their governments will not be used for war or war planning, but for purposes of peace. The past year has been a year of unprecedented accomplishments to the end that the earth shall become more of a place of peace and less of a place for intrigue among war planners.

By HARRY M. DAUGHERTY
Atty.-General of the United States

The year has been filled with marvelous achievements that work for peace and good-will among men and among nations.

The disarmament conference is probably the outstanding development in an international sense in that direction. It means less of hardship for the small wage earned or the plodding citizen, upon whom usually falls the greater burden of war costs through taxation.

My observation is that this year of 1921 has witnessed a pronounced diminution in crime and crime planning. Men nare growing better. There is less need for prosecutors. We, as nations, are getting past the reactions caused by the war and are beginning to realize that the pathways of peace are most profitable in the long run.

Look the wide world over and you will find men more disposed to meet their fellowmen upon a plane of fairness. As the chief law officer of the government, it is my judgment that what is true of the United States is true of other countries, with few exceptions—and it is that peoples everywhere now are getting back to the idea that war in all its destructive aspects imposes hardships so severe that it must be avoided at all costs.

U. S. WOMEN WEAR CLOTHES BEST SO IT'S ADMITTED

Widow of Englishman Gives View Upon Dress; Business Man's Comparisons

By International News Service

LONDON—Although the American woman can wear her clothes to better advantage than the average English woman the latter shines wherever she may be, according to Lady Henry, an American born woman who is the widow of an Englishman. Her criticism was occasioned by reports from the United States that American fashion authorities were saying that American women looked startlingly trig and smart in England, where there are no feminine complexions worth speaking of.

"I think," said Lady Henry, "that so much depends on the individual. Personally I think a beautiful Englishwoman shines wherever she may be.

Value of Personality

"But, in any case, I do not think that clothes count for as much nowadays as they did before the war. English women who did war work are, perhaps, not so super-particular about their clothes as they were. I think they have found out that more depends on personality than on clothes.

"Another point is that so many of the American women one sees are merely passing through from one place to another. Naturally, they wear the kind of clothes which are suitable for traveling—that is, "trig, smart tailor-mades."

An American business man who visits London twice a year added his quota of comparison.

"What always strikes me about English women, when I return to London after three or four months in New York, is their restful appearance. It seems to me that their clothes express some quality of this kind which the majority of our women lack.

Strand or Bond Street

"I agree that a dozen American women walking up the Strand would probably draw attention to themselves because of the extreme neatness of their appearance. But I do not believe that they would attract a scrap more attention in, say, Bond street, than a dozen English women, typical of the hundreds of other beautiful women it is possible to meet in the course of a stroll in the West End shopping centres.

"Americans abroad are naturally in what may be called 'luggage kit.' English women in their own country are not under the necessity of being so absolutely trim. They can overflow a little into broken lines and bunchings, to express the thing untechnically, which, after all, have their own charm."

FIND BIG VALLEY OF IRON

EDMONTON, Alta.—Discovery of a valley of iron on the shores of Lake Athabasca has thrilled the north almost as keenly as the discovery of oil on the Mackenzie. The iron by analysis is 64.36 per cent pure. Steel tape run over the outcropping ore showed 150,000,000 tons available for mining, while 5,000,000 tons in loose blocks scattered over the ground will require no mining operations. The entire ore body lies close to water navigable by large vessels.

The discovery was made by Norman C. Butterfield and E. C. Butterfield, his son. They had gone on a canoe trip to Fond-du-Lac, a fur post at the east end of Lake Athabasca and on their return voyage were forced ashore on a beach of black sand which formed the entrance to the valley of iron. The iron is within convenient reach of railway transportation. It can be shipped aboard steamboats from Lake Athabasca.

Books, like proverbs, receive their chief value from the stamp and esteem of ages through which they have passed.—Sir William Temple.

ARCTIC TRAVEL AND DISCOVERY TOLD IN TWO BOOKS

Some Fine Illustrations Are Given of Far North; Late Fiction Released

By CHARLES H. CUSHING
In Charge of Branch Library

The branch library has just received two splendid books on Arctic travel and discovery, "Four Years in the White North" by MacMillan, in which he describes the Crocker Land Expedition and Nansen's "Farthest North." The latter contains some very fine colored plates illustrating the wonderful Arctic sunsets.

"How to Choose and Get a Better Job" is an intensely practical book which tells something that all young people want to know. "Successful Family Life on the Moderate Income" shows how to make the most of one's advantages by applying business principles to household management. "Working North from Patagonia" is another of Harry Franck's delightful travelogues. "The Americanization of Edward Bok" is one of the most notable biographies of the day. "Across Mongolian Plains" by Andrews is a splendid picture of Oriental life.

New Fiction Books

Among the new fiction are "Bruce," a dog story, and "Damon and Pythias," the latter being the story of the wonderful friendship which gave the name to the great society of "The Knights of Pythias."

Other fiction titles are: "The Tree of Heaven" by May Sinclair, "The Beloved Woman" by Kathleen Norris, "Tillie the Mennonite Maid" an old favorite replaced. "King Coal" by Upton Sinclair, "The Borough Treasurer" by Fletcher, "The Happy Warrior" by Hutchinson, "Laramie Holds the Range" by Spearman, "The White Wolf" by Gregor, "Cativ Atkin's Riverman" by Kelland, "Quin" by Alice Hegan Rice and "Dangerous Ages" by Rose Macaulay.

For the Young Folks

New juveniles: "Poems by a Little Girl" (Hilda Conkling), show a remarkable amount of poetic feeling for one so young. "The Book of Birds for Young People" by Mathews is beautifully illustrated in color. "Cudio's Cave" and "The Three Scouts" by Trowbridge are two good Civil War stories. "Dick Sand" is one of Jules Verne's stories full of adventure and instruction. "The Green Forest Fairy Book" by Loretta E. Brady contains eleven original fairy tales. "The Whirling King and Other Stories" consists of French fairy tales adapted by Harriet M. Alcott.

'CHANGES IN CHINA' TOPIC OF LECTURE BY REV. CHAPIN

Missionary From Orient Has Much of Interest to Tell at Pacific Ave. Church

"Changes in China," was the subject of a lecture Sunday night at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church by Rev. E. D. Chapin, who is spending a six months' vacation in this country after twenty-eight years' service as a missionary in the Orient.

"Perhaps no better illustration of the changes which are taking place politically, socially and religiously, in the great land of China, could be found than in the wonderful transformation in the last twenty-five years in the Province of Hunan," declared Rev. Chapin.

"This great province, one of the richest in natural resources as well as prominent in the political and literary history of China, was the last of the eighteen provinces of China proper, in the heart of which it is situated, to open to the gospel or to modern influences. Proud of their history, and deceived by the old, corrupt Manchu government into believing that all foreigners were cruel monsters who kidnapped children and cut out people's eyes and hearts for the practice of 'black art;' they had made it their boast that no 'foreign devil' should get a foothold in their province. When a fellow-worker and myself made our first trip into the province in the fall of 1896 no Protestant missionaries had yet been able to obtain a permanent foothold, although several pioneers had been making itinerating trips into the province in the face of great opposition and sometimes at real danger to their lives. In those days one could scarcely enter any city or village without being met by a shower of stones or blows.

Feared Kidnaping Plot

"Our queues, as we were then wearing the native dress, were very convenient things to pull or to tie to a post or other object we might have our back turned to while preaching on the streets or distributing Christian literature. Even in the midst of serious situations one could not help seeing the humourous side sometimes, as, for instance, when someone tied my queue to that of a boy in the crowd and I started off towing him after me, yelling at the top of his voice, thinking he was being kidnappd. At one place our boat with everything we had on it was burned by a mob, we escaping in another boat from the mob pursuing in other boats, as we were convinced in direct answer to prayer.

"In the city of Chang-teh Fu, the largest and most important place in the western part of the province, we succeeded in renting a house to open a mission station, but the officials stirred up such opposition among the people that we were unable to occupy it, and lived for over a year on our boat, going ashore daily preaching and distributing literature on the streets and inviting those who were interested to come to our boat. Thus we gradually wore down the hostility of the people, and in fact baptized our first two converts while still on the boat with no real foothold in the city. When we were finally able to occupy a house, we did by strategy against the still-persisting opposition of the officials.

"Thus, in the fall of 1897, the first permanent mission station in this great province ,with its estimated population of over 22,000,000, was opened. Today, less than twenty-five years later, there are thirty-seven mission stations within its boundaries, with over four hundred missonaries and several thousand converts. In Changsha, the capital, there is a large college, medical school and hospital ,union girls' high school, and other well developed work, as well as many fine institutions in other large cities. While not all opposition has ceased, and the fighting between the north and south in their civil war of the last few years has been a considerable hindrance, yet it is correct to say that the whole province is now open to the gospel. Truly one who knew the Hunan of twenty-five years ago, and who sees the Hunan of today, can say with deep praise, "What hath God wrought!"

Barbers in China Strike for More Than Five Cents

SHANGHAI, China — Five thousand Chinese barbers have declared a strike in Shanghai.

They claim that three cents isn't enough for a shave, and that five cents is far too little for a haircut, especially when one considers that the ear-cleaning process and facial massage are thrown in for good measure.

The Chinese community is aghast at the impudence of the barbers. Think of it—the barbers, who stand at the very bottom of the Chinese social ladder, are dissatisfied!

"What if the cost of rice has increased?" asks Wong Fong-tsz, 'rickshaw coolie, as he surveys the matter with the proud assurance of one who knows his own relative social importance. "Barbers — why, barbers receive ten dollars a month, and this is too much for them. Imagine barbers striking!"

Incense is being burned before the god of the barbers, Loh Yuinshan, in the City Temple, and red candles are lighted before his shrine by the barbers, who are praying that their monthly income be augmented at least an additional 10 per cent.

The Chinese barber shop is a far cry from the tonsorial parlor of America. The majority of the barbers work out of doors. Long rows of barbers are seen in the Temple courtyard, others in a busy city gate, while many travel from door to door.

From Loh Yuinshan, the Chinese barbers learned the art of shaving the head, scraping the face, plaiting the queues, cleaning the ears with small ivory spoons, wiping the eyelids and thumping and massaging the face and back.

LONDON DIGS UP 'HEAVIES'

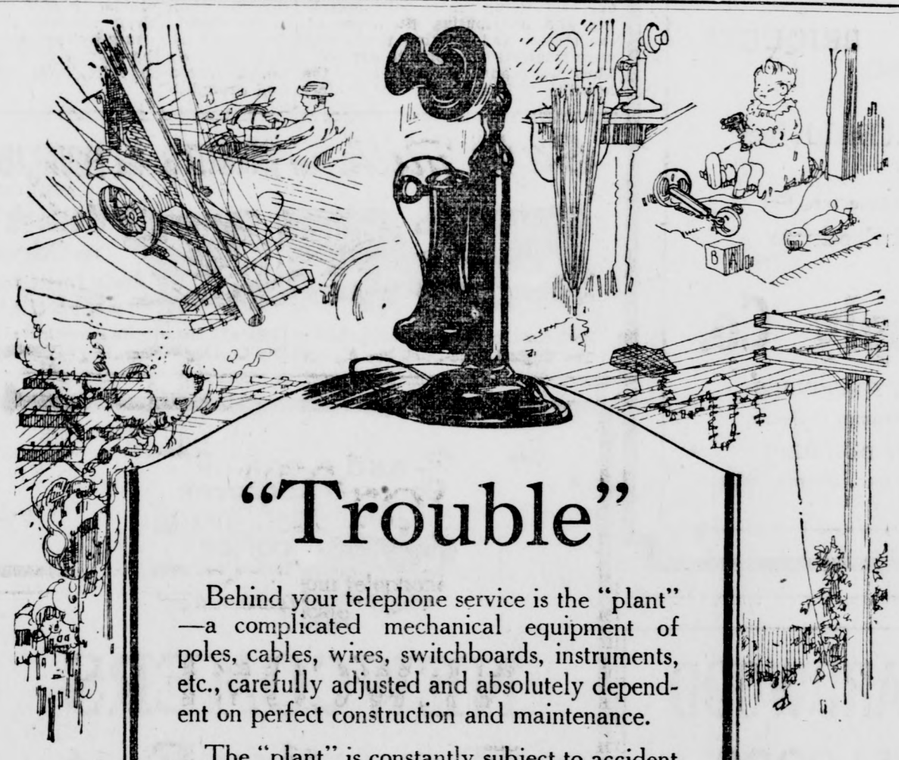
LONDON — Londoners are now diving into their trunks and bottom drawers disinterring their last winter's woolen underwear. Winter is upon them. It was not the biting east wind that sent them shivering to their homes, but the news that a flock of wild geese and swans had, put in an appearance off the outer Hebrides on the west coast of Scotland.

They came from Iceland, and it is a tradition in that part of Scotland that the appearance of these birds at this time of the year is an infallible sign that the coming winter is to be a hard one.

TO HAVE MINSTREL SHOW

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — The inmates of the state reformatory have found a new way to raise funds for their Christmas "feed." Owing to the fact that the Legislature made a very meagre appropriation to the institution this year, it has become necessary for the inmates to hustle their own funds.

The inmates have organized a minstrel troupe and they will visit neighboring towns, where they will dance, "crack" jokes and entertain the populace in numerous other ways in an effort to raise money to purchase choice edibles for their holiday dinners. The reformatory football eleven recently turned in $175 toward this fund.



"Trouble"

Behind your telephone service is the "plant" —a complicated mechanical equipment of poles, cables, wires, switchboards, instruments, etc., carefully adjusted and absolutely dependent on perfect construction and maintenance.

The "plant" is constantly subject to accident and outside interference. Storms, fires, the carelessness of workmen, the pranks of children, concealed defects of material—all play their part.

The telephone company maintains a skilled force whose sole duty is to quickly restore service interrupted from any cause. Your lines are constantly watched and tested.

In the case of trouble we are generally the first to know it, but a notification to our Complaint Department when there is anything wrong will be appreciated.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Advertisement.

DEFEAT OF CENTRE BY TEXAS TEAM PROVES GREAT SURPRISE

Only Explanation is That Visitors Are Stale; It is Simply a Case of Too Much Football

By HOWARD M'GILLIS, Sporting Editor The Evening News

Although the result of Monday's East vs. West football tussle at Pasadena was one of the most unexpected athletic feats in recent Pacific coast intercollegiate competition it does not rank "one-two" with the surprise package that was handed the highly touted Centre college gridiron huskies in the form of a 22 to 14 defeat at the hands of the mediocre eleven representing the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college. The almost unbelievable feat that was accomplished by the fighting Texans in completely overwhelming "Bo" McMillin, "Red" Roberts, et al, was the cause of no small number of return telegrams to be sent back to Dallas on Monday night to make sure that the original was not a mistake. In short, it literally "turned the football world upside down."

The only feasible and logical explanation for the Kentuckians' second defeat since 1915 lies in the old story of athletes "going stale." With a season that has been as long as was the 1921 Centre schedule it is nothing less than remarkable when it is noted that but one game was lost in four months of intensive play. Traveling over 14,000 miles Uncle Charlie Moran and his band of Praying Colonels trampled over all opponents with indiscrimination, beating everything from Vanderbilt to mighty Harvard, until they struck a snag at Dallas Monday afternoon. It was simply a case of overtraining combined with too much confidence.

The team that broke Moran's string of victories can hardly be classed above the average college eleven, its record in winning the "championship of the Southwest" being not nearly so impressive as numerous others throughout the country. The A. and M. squad was beaten early in the season by the practically unheard-of Louisiana University, and later was barely able to defeat the Arizona Wildcats, who looked like a grammar school bunch against Centre at San Diego on Christmas day.

It is more than amusing to read the different accounts of the California-Washington and Jefferson contest, practically every writer differing greatly from the rest in his explanation of the numerous sidelights on the epochal gridiron event. More discrepancies have been noted in the reports of Monday's game than in those of any similar contest in the history of American football.

The reason for the many misunderstandings lies in the fact that the athletes were so perfectly smeared with mud and slush during most of the game that it was next to impossible to pick a Bear husky from a President. Within five minutes after the opening whistle the numbers on the players' backs had magically disappeared, with the result that their individuality was but a matter of conjecture to most of the 40,000 spectators.

The W. and J. players must have been wise to the "kidding" tactics that were used to great advantage earlier in the season by the Bears in the University of Southern California game. In that memorable contest the Bruins simply talked the U. S. C. performers "out of it" when they laughingly sneered at them and their chances to win. Johnny Boyle, Charlie Dean and Johnny Leadingham were the targets for most of the "razzing."

In Monday's struggle "Brick" Muller and several of his fellow stars on Andy Smith's aggregation were talked to by their opponents until they didn't know whether they were "coming or going." Such strategy is what wins football games.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States has weathered many storms and attacks, but the recent withdrawal of the National Collegiate association from the ranks of the A. A. U. is probably the hardest blow it has ever received.

Had James E. Sullivan been alive today, it is almost safe to assume the split never would have happened. Sullivan had his enemies, but he was honest, fearless and always said what he thought. He was open to reason, he fought for what he considered right but he was not stubborn. His diplomacy and sane reasoning saved the A. A. U. from being wrecked, not once but dozens of times, and he had to overcome obstacles similar to the one the A. A. U. now faces.

Sullivan with his great insight into the future, his broadmindedness and his give and take policy would have saved the present predicament. Since his death in 1914, there has not been found a man with the breadth of vision, the backbone and diplomacy to continue the great work of the A. A. U.

The A. A. U. is necessary. It must survive, but it must be run along different lines to what has been the case in the years since Jim Sullivan passed away. Considerable diplomacy will have to be exerted to regain the affiliation of the colleges. The A. A. U. can exist without the colleges, but its usefulness will be impaired to a degree bordering on panic.

When Sullivan first organized the A. A. U. in 1888 he had his hurdles to get over, and he had his opponents. Since then from time to time outbreaks have happened all over the country all of which had anything but a beneficial effect on the organization. During Sullivan's life he successfully handled all these cancerous sores. A number of years ago the New York A. C. made a threat to pull out of the A. A. U. on a swimming question. The break with the big New York club looked serious and clubs all over the country were only waiting for New York to make the break to string along with them. It was Sullivan who settled that controversy. Later in the middle west another outbreak was threatened. Here again Jim Sullivan's hand was on the helm and the difficulties amicably settled.

Today open ruptures with the A. A. U. or its branches are prevalent throughout the country and the National Collegiate Association has taken a hand in the matter and withdrawn. In San Francisco, Calif., there is a break with the Pacific Association branch on the government of swimming that has assumed proportions that are staggering the local A. A. U. men. Up in Portland, Ore., the A. A. U. branch there has evidently overstepped its authority in entering into high school basketball questions and is said to have disqualified men in the schools. The A. A. U. has no jurisdiction whatever on the grounds taken at Portland, Ore. In other parts of the country there are local differences with the A. A. U. district governing bodies and unless a second Jim Sullivan can be found, and found quickly, the A. A. U. government and their district-governing bodies are going to feel the weight of public opinion as well as the dissatisfaction of its athletes and competitors among its own ranks.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The main deterrent to a good game of golf is the fact that the player thinks too much of the consequences of his shot.

This seems to be the opinion of a great majority of golfers who have given the matter any thought. In the last analysis, golf is largely a mental game. Probably there is no sport in which the element of psychology enters in so much as in golf.

It is proverbial that the average golfer who merely is making a drive or approach shot for the fun of the thing will often do better than he will wkhen he concentrates.

Concentration is necessary, but it must occur without the element of fear entering in. Fear, then, is the thing that bothers the golfer. The fear of a sliced or pulled drive which means getting into difficulties.

Don't think of the hazards and shoot, seems to be an axiom which few golfers can live up to. Hazards were made to harass golfers and as long as they continue in the game, it must be presumed that fear of them will continue.

In talking to the late Bob Lager, professional at the Lincoln Park links in San Francisco, this excellent player had this to say:

"In making a shot I always try to think that everyhting is clear and that I have nothing to fear. The minute I get to figuring out possible difficulties into which I may shoot myself, I find that my game goes off.

The average golfer thinks too much of his grip, his stance and a hundred and one things that will put him off his shot. As a matter of fact, golf is like anything else. It must be played according to the individual. The tall man can't do exactly like the fellow that is four foot five. The personal equation must be taken into consideration. This is something that is too often lost sight of. You can't make a standard, for one standard cannot possibly fit everybody.

"Take a look at the golfers. Note what a lot of time they take puttering around before they make their shot. That is one trouble. It allows too much time to a lot of fearsome thinking. If the golfer would tee up his ball and with a preparatory swing or two, let drive, they probably would do much better than taking so much time. You'll note that in this process the player will change his grip several times. Why? Simply because he or she may be thinking of some standard. Instead they ought to take the grip which comes more or less naturally.

"My advice to the average golfer is to forget about form. Of course there are certain essentials of form that you can't get away from if you want to succeed at the game, but don't run this into the ground.

Eminent Surgeon's Aid Is Given for Starving Children

WASHINGTON—How Dr. Adolf Lorenz, one of the foremost surgeons in the world, found a "higher surgery" in becoming a "butcher" for the American Red Cross in Vienna came to light in a letter received by National Red Cross headquarters here from the famous surgeon. Dr. Lorenz did not gain the sobriquet of "butcher" by carving human beings, but by turning his surgical skill upon bacon supplies sent to Vienna by the American Red Cross to relieve the hunger-stricken children of that city.

According to Dr. Lorenz's own version of his unique experience as a "butcher," no delicate operation in his brilliant career afforded him half the satisfaction he derived when he began to cut from the sides of American bacon rich, juicy slices of nutritious meat for famished children.

The eminent surgeon's letter, written during the turbulent days that gripped Vienna following the war, vividly portrayed the pitiable plight of the starving children and the events leading up to his turning "butcher."

"Terrifying as is the daily toll of victims in tuberculosis cases," wrote Dr. Lorenz, "the fate of unfortunate youths of both sexes is even more so. These drag themselves along, crying out for help that nobody can give them, and this just because they are starving.

"The mere sight of these heaped up miseries has at times overwhelmed me, and I would run off in despair, only to return very soon to the work of at least lessening the physical agonies of the sufferers."

"Under circumstances like this," continued the letter, "I began to hate my work. But happily an event occurred which brought about a change, and I again learned to love the work, because it then seemed less hopeless. It wasn't by inventing a new method of operation on the emaciated bodies of the wretched little patients that I took fresh spirit, but by having to perform operations with a knife bigger than any I had ever used before.

"Such a change in my work was brought about by the arrival in Vienna of a carload of American Red Cross bacon and condensed milk. A sixth part of this treasure I was called upon to dispose of in my dispensary, and I can assure everybody that butchery on American Red Corss sides of bacon is a wonderful art when the butcher sees the outstretched hands of the poor children, many of whom had never tasted fat in their lives, and when he observes the light kindled anew in their tarnished eyes."

David Crockett was in congress from 1826 to 1830 and from 1832 to 1834, representing a Tennessee constituency. At the end of his last congressional term he joined the Texans in their war against Mexico and helped defend the Alamo in 1836.

Jazz Music Results in Moral Breakdown, This Official Claims

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
Written for International News Service.

CHICAGO—Moral disaster is coming to hundreds of young American girls through the pathological, nerve-irritating, sex-exciting music of jazz orchestras," according to the Illinois Vigilance association, which has instituted a crusade to arouse parents, churches and schools to the danger to young womanhood.

In Chicago alone the association's representatives have traced the fall of 1000 girls in the last two years to jazz music.

Girls in small towns, as well as the big cities, in poor homes and rich homes, are victims of the weird, insidious, neurotic music that accompanies modern dancing.

"The degrading music is common not only to disorderly places, but often to high school affairs, to expensive hotels and to so-called society circles," declares the Rev. Phillip Yarrow, superintendent of the Vigilance association, who has prepared a preliminary report dealing with the problem.

The report says that the vigilance society has no desire to abolish dancing, but seeks to awaken the public conscience to the present danger and future consequences of jazz music.

Referring to the 1,000 fallen girls, the Rev. Yarrow's report says:

"The demoralizing part played by jazz music and dancing in the experience of these girls was repeatedly portrayed in their painful stories. To observe the final fruits of the 'jazz music route' one must visit a big dance floor in Chicago's Second Ward. Here investigators for the Vigilance association found the logical culmination of so-called 'modern' music.

"Mid the distracting notes of the saxophone and the weird beat of the tom-tom was witnessed conduct not hitherto seen outside the old red-light district. In full view of the audience, which included many boys and girls apparently in their teens, couples on the floor gave way to almost every form of indecency.

THIS BOY SOLDIER DOESN'T LIKE TO ATTEND SCHOOL

Brought Before Judge When He Shows Preference for Marine Headquarters

By RAY HUMPHREYS
Special to The Glendale Evening News.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 6.—"Huh, Judge, I'm no landlubber—and I want to be on my way; I belong to the marines!"

Twelve-year-old Jimmy Taylor, standing rigidly at attention, snapped that out to Judge Royal R. Graham of the Denver Juvenile court. Jimmy was before the court as a "delinquent" because he preferred to spend his time at the marine detachment headquarters at the Denver postoffice rather than in school

Jimmy Taylor is Iwan Oghigin, and he was born twelve years ago in Petrograd. His father, a Russian army officer, was killed in the Bolshevist uprising February 17, 1917.

Brother Dies in Duel

The lad's mother died shortly after of heart disease and the boy was left to the tender mercies of a Russian revolution. A brother, Gricher Oghigin, also an army officer, came after him and took the lad to Tornsk, Siberia, where the brother was killed in a duel with a Japanese officer. The boy was then taken to Vladivostok by the Czecho-Slovak troops, and a year later, during a local uprising, the tossed-about orphan was given an asylum on the U. S. S. New Orleans.

Here, Jimmy told the court, he was adopted as a mascot by the marines and Corporal Metucek took particular charge of him. They went to Choofoo, China, on the supply ship Sarah Thompson, and there the lad was turned over to Sergeant Albert Hodges, second aero squadron, who was on leave from Fort Mills, Philippine Islands. Back to Fort Mills went Hodges and his charge and Hodges was reduced to the ranks, the Russian boy passing to the guardianship of Sergeant Archie Taylor.

Sergeant Taylor came to Denver several months ago following his discharge.

Fails to Scare Him

"Jimmy is a good boy," said Mrs. Taylor, Sergeant Taylor's wife, to the court, "but he won't stay in school—he likes the marine uniform so well that he has to be close to one all the time."

Judge Graham pondered a moment.

"Well," he said, hoping to frighten the lad, "I am going to look into the case and see if we can't deport Jimmy back to Russia, where it's cold and desolate. If he doesn't appreciate school perhaps he wants to go back to struggling Russia."

The boy smiled happily.

"Fine, judge," he said earnestly. "I like to travel; I've been on shore too long—when do I start?"

This silenced "his honor" effectively and a hasty order was entered continuing Jimmy's case a week. Meanwhile the court is appealing to the marine detachment to use its influence in getting Jimmy back to school, where he had made a good record up to a few weeks ago, when he went A. W. O. L. and landed in the clutches of the truancy officer. Jimmy and his foster parents live at 2259 Stout street, Denver.

Rich Chinese Buys Noted Old Diamond With Mystery Past

SHANGHAI, China—Worn by the beautiful Gaby Deslys, French actress famous for her wonderful jewels and the hearts she had broken, and having a romantic, mysterious history, the largest diamond in China, which has been on display in a local jewelry store, has been purchased by a wealthy Chinese of Peking whose name is not known.

The marvelous stone, weighing 102.69 carats and measuring more than an inch in width and having a depth in proportion, arrived from Paris recently.

The fame of the stone was abroad in China soon after it arrived, but the scintillating jewel, in its blue velvet box, was brought forth for only a favored few to see.

The jewel is centuries old and is said to have been worn in the jeweled turbans of famous court beauties, shone as the eye in the forehead of a goddess in a temple in Egypt and to have played a part in the wars of the ancient world.

Whatever its mysterious past the next chapter of the jewel will be written in ancient Peking. Whether it will be worn by the wife of a wealthy official at social functions attended by the cosmopolitan foreign residents or on the slim little hand of a beautiful concubine hidden from the public eye is unknown.

The purchaser of the diamond made one visit to the store, inspected the jewel and purchased it at once. The diamond was sold for $50,000 and, according to the managers of the firm of jewelers, would have sold for $175,000 if the color had been perfect and the shape, which was slightly square, round.

The Chinese are the great diamond buyers in Shanghai. The Chinese women are mad about wonderful jewels and wear large diamonds in rings, bracelets, hair ornaments and in dangling earrings. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are invested by the Chinese in diamonds every year.

World War Veteran Gets Grubstake to Hunt Nevada Wilds

RENO, Nev.—Grubstaked by the Red Cross, with a borrowed saddle horse and trapping outfit, Homer LeClair, one-legged ex-service man, took his 102 pounds of grit to Truckee River canyon, about ten miles east of Reno, where he proposes to "clean up" at the expense of coyotes and bobcats, which, he says, are swarming in that region.

LeClair was a trapper in Nevada, where he also rode the range in days before the war. He enlisted in the regulars and went to France as a member of the Second Division, first in the Twelfth and then in the Fifteenth Field Artillery, with which he saw nearly all the hardest fighting of that hard-fighting outfit.

Then he was sent to North Russia with the Archangel expedition, and fought the frigid cold and the "bolos," as the Doughboys named the Bolsheviki.

LeClair did not lose his leg, which is gone just below the hip, until he was again a civilian in the United States, employed as chauffeur by a major at Camp Devens. Riding a motorcycle one dark night he collided with a truck, the amputation resulting.

Making his way to Reno, a few weeks ago, LeClair sought vainly for some work a one-legged man can do and, failing to find it, took to the sagebrush with horse, traps, messkit.

COLUMBUS, O.—A man walked up to the window where a girl teller was on duty at the Central Building Loan and Savings Company, No. 46 East Gay street. She complied with his request for change for a $50 bill. Upon receiving the change he told her she had given him a $2 bill instead of a $20 bill. Then she gave him $18 more. After the flimflammer left she found out that he had switched the $2 bill in substitution for the $20 bill which she had given in the first place.

Curzon's Taste in Art Starts Trouble; Cabinet Is Involved

Written for International News Service

LONDON—A question of artistic taste almost caused a split in the British cabinet, and it needed all the tact of Lloyd George to avert it. Lord Curzon and Sir Alfred Mond were the leaders of the opposing factions.

Seven years ago an ardent British patriot named Sigismund Goetz, well known as an artist, offered to paint a number of allegorical pictures, symbolizing the rise of Britain's greatness. His intention was to present them to the Foreign Office, where they were to decorate the principal corridor.

Sir Edward Grey accepted the offer. The war, however, delayed execution of the pictures, and it was not until last September they were completed.

Lord Curzon arrived at the Foreign Office to find six huge canvases already installed. And, whether because he did not like them or because he had heard nothing of their expected arrival, he became exceedingly annoyed. He sent for Sir Alfred Mond, the minister whose department was responsible for hanging the canvases.

Now, Lord Curzon has the attractive quality of making nearly everyone he meets dislike him. Sir Alfred Mond, on the other hand, is a cosmopolitan financier, with a big nose and the habit of asking, "What?" "What?" "What?" after every sentence in a somewhat aggressive manner.

Incidentally, Mr. Sigismund Goetz happens to be Sir Alfred Mond's brother-in-law.

Lord Curzon demanded an explanation and the immediate removal of the pictures. He even went so far as to declare that they were wanting in artistic merit.

Now, Sir Alfred Mond is proud of his taste in art, and he has spent a fortune in demonstrating it. So he very firmly told Lord Curzon to confine his remarks to matters he knew something about. And Lord Curzon retorted, with much justification, that it would be a hard world if a man could not have what pictures he liked hanging on the walls of his own office. To which Sir Alfred Mond remarked that it seemed a common delusion with Lord Curzon that the Foreign Office was his private property.

Musicale and Tea at Home of Mrs. Woods

A very charming musicale and afternoon tea was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nanno Woods, 122 West Milford street. Mrs. Catherine Sherwood delighted those present with old Irish and Scotch folk-songs. The entertainment also included an entertaining reading of child life by Mrs. Edwin Murphy, a quaint musical reading entitled "Cock-a-doodle-doo" by Mrs. Woods and also two original poems on feminine philosophy. The wonderful voice of Francisco, celebrated tenor, was heard to advantage on the beautiful Usona console in "Paloma" and "La Golondrina" and a Christmas record of Santa Claus visiting the children was greatly enjoyed.

The invited guests included Mesdames B. Dev, Wright, Reed, McLain, Hall, Boyd, Michel, Sibberell, Bender, Kramer, Day, Murphy, Wilson, Brown, Sherwood, Kulp, Shafer, Love, Strother, Bennett, Yates, Campbell, Hoffman, Kurtz, Ackley, Empey, Pratt, McElroy, Van Veld, St. Clair, Catherine Sherwood, Park, Clark, Clover, Rae, E. INDUSTRIAL ZONES ARE ELIMINATED IN NORTHWEST

section of the city. Also, he said his interests would not protest against the extension of Patterson avenue, provided the improvement was made so that the Hahn property could be suitably cut into residential lots.

The discussion showed some difference of opinion relative to the lines of the zoning ordinance, also as to whether now was a suitable time to adopt it.

Beyond instructing City Attorney Bert Woodard to eliminate the San Fernando-Central avenue strip and the Doran to the Burbank line territory from the ordinance, the council last night took no further action, as it was pointed out that, no doubt, other sections of the city may be heard from in protest.

The districts to be zoned are shown in colors on a map on display at the city hall and property owners interested are invited by the officials to view the map and voice their objections, if any.

Later in the evening the council accepted an amendment to the set back ordinance which will permit the erection of a building closer to the side and rear property line than twenty-five feet. The provision which orders the erection of a building twenty-five feet from the front property line remains, however.

Also, the council finally adopted the building ordinance. It contains 116 pages and will, it was announced, be published in pamphlet form for distribution to contractors and builders, for which a charge will be made.

Mr. Guthrie opened the discussion on the zoning ordinance and he declared that the measure as outlined on the map would ruin "the cominig Wilshire district of Glendale and make it into a Boyle Heights." He made a forceful talk, filled with telling points and was loudly applauded by the large number of protestants present.

Other speakers indorsed a number of his statements and during the discussion it developed that some favored a zoning ordinance now, while others favored waiting for a time.

"Would Solve Problems"

Councilman Stephenson called attention to the fact that a zoning ordinance would solve building problems confronting the city at nearly every meeting and Councilman Davis declared property owners should have protection. Other councilmen voiced the same sentiment. Councilmen C. E. Kimlin said that he believed the ordinance deserved considerable further study before being passed.

Attorney Levey declared he was "single shotting" on the lumber yards on Glendale avenue and called upon Mayor Robinson to "tell what you know" about the plans, if any, of the Salt Lake for the electrification of its system.

Mayor Robinson reported "progress" and also that he was not at liberty to state what he had learned within the last few days as the subject was being confidentially discussed and not ready for announcement. It was admitted, in answer to Attorney Levey's questions, that the zoning ordinance permits the lumber yards to remain, as it does all industries now established.

Not Ordered by Council

And, during the discussion of the ordinance, members of the bouncil declared that the placing of the industrial zone in the San Fernando Road-Central avenue strip was not ordered by them and they did not know of its being there.

Also, it was brought out that property owners themselves can, by a fifty per cent petition, control the erection of bungalow courts and apartment houses in sections of the city outside of the industrial and business zones.

With the exception of Mr. Levey, there was none present to discuss the ordinance except as it related to the northwestern section of the city.

It is possible that Attorney Woodard will have the redrafted ordinance ready for the next meeting of the council and then, it is also possible, other sections of the city may be heard from after property owners call at the city hall and view the map showing the various zones.

Local Women Ready to Start Tag Day

The committee of Glendale women who will have charge of tag day tomorrow for the Volunteers of America, Mrs. A. C. Brown, Mrs. A. L. Bryant, Mrs. C. M. Crist, Mrs. E. E. Ford, Mrs. E. M. Lee, and Mrs. Spencer Robinson, and those who have been asked to assist in the sale of tags for that organization are urged to meet at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Dodge Brothers Motor Co., local salesroom, of which George E. Clayton is agent.

Tags will be disposed of for amounts from 10 cents to 50 cents or $1, and will be for the purpose of furthering the work of the organization, which is supported by voluntary contributions. As announced in The Evening News yesterday, prizes will be awarded to those securing the largest amounts for the sale of tags.

UPHOLD COLORED TROOPS

LONDON—"All our information is to the effect that the allegations of improper conduct by the colored troops have been grossly exaggerated. There is no evidence that they commit outrages more frequently than other troops, not excepting the German troops in the garrison towns before the war."

These extracts are from a document published by the Foreign Office on the aspects of the employment of colored troops on the Rhine.

FIVE FEATURE ACTS OF VAUDEVILLE ON GLENDALE BILL

Picture of City's Float in the Tournament of Roses to Be Shown on Screen

Five acts of featured vaudeville from the Bert Levey coast-to-coast circuit headline the Glendale Theatre program today. In addition to this bargain entertainment there is an unexcelled picture program with pictures of the Glendale Rose Tournament float in the International News reel and Brownie, the wonder dog, in two reels of hilarity, entitled "Tin Cans."

"Moral Fibre," the photodramatic feature today, is filled with intensely emotional scenes.

To Avenge Her Brother

The story deals with a girl, who in childhood took an oath to avenge her brother and later found vengeance was not hers to take. In this production Corinne Griffith appears first as a child of thirteen and later as a young woman. The roles are so difficult that none but well known players could handle them, and so what might be termed an all-star cast was engaged to support Miss Griffith and such names as Catherine Calvert, William Parks, Jr., Joe King, Harry C. Browne and Alice Concord are found in the list. Beautiful sets and exquisite scenic backgrounds give the picture an atmosphere and the story is one of the unusual twists which is seldom equaled in screen productions.

The pronghorn antelope is making its last stand in the district of Southeastern Oregon and Northern Nevada, along the boundary of the two states. It is being exterminated rapidly.

Opening Sale
SIXTH UNIT AT
Fairview

Large Lots as Low as $465.50
$46.55 Cash $15.00 per Mo.

Take advantage of the 5 per cent discount which we are giving during our opening sales.

This sixth unit is the last unit we will have for sale at prices anywhere near those we are now offering.

Nearly one year ago we obtained an option on sixty acres of land where our FAIRVIEW subdivision is now located. As soon as we had sold the first unit acreage prices began to advance very rapidly until now it is impossible to buy any land in this beautiful section at prices that would enable anybody to make the lots as low as they are at FAIRVIEW.

Not only is this the last opportunity to buy from us or anyone else in this section, lots as low as $500.00, but it is also true that the lots in FAIRVIEW will advance proportionately in value when this last unit has been sold, and there are no more to be had.

Other subdivisions in this section are now selling at very much higher prices.

We predict that the Sixth Unit of FAIRVIEW will be sold out in a very short time. If you want to buy a lot in a beautiful location close to transportation where a great development is taking place, come out today. Bring $50.00 and get a lot.

Reasonable restrictions; water, gas, electricity and street work. Temporary homes permitted.

Drive out West Broadway and San Fernando Road to Vine Avenue (opposite F. L. Meneley Window Shade Factory), then one block to right to tract office at Vine Avenue and Fourth Street, or phone and we will call and take you out to the tract. The Tract Agent is on the ground every day.

PROMISE EXCELLENT VAUDEVILLE BILL FOR T. D. & L.

Original Dancers, Songs and Stories Help to Make Up Program of Interest

With the new year well under way Meiklejohn & Dunn have taken special care to make the vaudeville road show which they are bringing to the T. D. & L. theatre one of the best that has ever been seen anywhere at popular prices.

Jeanette Benson and Ralph Bell are a pair of nifty steppers who have a reputation as being about the most original dancers on the stage today. The divertisements which they offer are all of their own creation and some of the costumes for this act are a revelation.

From the sunny south comes dusky Ed Tolliver with his inimitable songs and droll stories. This comedian is funny as only a real darky can be and there are sure to be miles of smiles to be seen all during his offering.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney, favorites on some of the largest vaudeville circuits of this country, have a dramatic sketch that has many lines of comedy running through it. "The Drudge" is a playlet of every-day life and has a climax that holds many thrills.

The Century Duo consists of two dainty misses who sing and dance in a very charming manner. Although quite petite these talented kiddies perform in a way that would do credit to performers much older.

There have been many fine pictures made in which Gloria Swanson has had the stellar roles. "Under the Lash," her latest starring vehicle, is considered one of the best photoplays she has ever played in and will be shown in addition to the vaudeville today and tomorrow.

Matinee Benefit for Float Fund Planned

At a meeting of the Glendale float committee at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday it was decided to hold a matinee benefit at the Glendale Theatre at an early date with a view of clearing all bills against the committee. Dr. Jessie A. Russell was appointed by Mrs. M. L. Tight, chairman, to have charge of the show.

L. W. Chobe, designer of the float, announces that anyone wanting to buy a "kiddies" playhouse—the California bungalow—may leave $10 with Secretary James M. Rhoades at the Chamber of Commerce and take the miniature structure. The eastern house was sold yesterday.

Considerable discussion over the award of second prize was had and answers from letters addressed to the Tournament of Rosses officials are awaited.

Receive First Supplies for Postal Service

The first load of supplies for Glendale's first-class postoffice were received yesterday, according to Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson. Gradually improvements are being made in the service which will be more noticeable three months from now, he says, as time tells in obtaining results.

Instructions are posted for the carriers today to go out of their way to please the people and make them feel satisfied it is a real service they are being rendered. Mr. Jackson is in thorough accord with the postmaster general's plan of "humanizing" the department and it will be reflected in Glendale.

Carrots Will Grow Hair on Bald Heads

PARIS—Likening men's scalps to the hindquarters of horses, Dr. Scherbe says there is no reason why any man should ever remain bald. Worry, sickness and many other causes may make men's hair fall out, but there is only one thing that surely makes hair grow again. Dr. Scherbe has tried it and vouches for the success of his discovery.

"Let all bald men eat carrots and plenty of them and their hair will grow again. I've tried it and I know. No one ignores the beneficent effect carrots have on horses' coats. Carrots are given to horses to make their coats beautiful and the hair strong. They have a similar effect on men's scalps."

Minister Is Given Warning to Leave Ardmore at Once

ARDMORE, Okla., Dec. 21.—"Rev. Wieth, if you value your life, you will leave town at once."

This warning, typewritten on a scrap of paper, was made public today by the Rev. C. C. Wieth, who received it through the mails. Rev. Wieth preached the funeral service of C. G. Sims, Ardmore policeman, said to have been the leader of the masked band which attacked the home of Joe Carroll near Wilson, and one of the three men slain in the shooting which followed.

The warning was being investigated while police continued to clear up details of the shooting.

Following a statement by J. A. Gilliam, one of the 16 men who were arrested in connection with the shooting, four were released on $2,500 bond this morning. They were Gilliam, Rev. Leon Julius, John Smith and Walter Carroll. H. A. Hensley, who established that he was not implicated in the affair, was freed.

According to the statement the object of the masked party was to force Joe Carroll, one of the men killed in the attack, to confess to alleged whiskey deals. The Ku Klux Klan or any other organization had no connection with the affair, according to Gilliam.

Sims, the Ardmore policeman, whose body riddled with bullets, was found in a field near the Carroll home after the attack, garbed in "unionalls" similar to Ku Klux regalia and with a mask tied about the neck, was the leader of the band, Gilliam said, and organized the party.

Excitement over the affair, which had threatened to result in rioting, had quieted down today. Preliminary hearings for those under arrest will be held tomorrow.
